

Parenting in the Digital Age

What (Grand)Parents
Need to Know About
Kids & the Internet

Ninety-four percent of all young people 12-18 years old are searching the internet daily. The average age of a child's first exposure to inappropriate content is six years old. And to top it off, 750,000 predators, at any given moment, are online looking to foster inappropriate relationships with minors.

Virtually join Deacon Marques Silva from the Office of Child Protection for the Diocese of Arlington to learn how to protect our children and grandchildren in this online world. We'll talk about smartphones, gaming, social media, weak points in our online monitoring, how to encourage good digital citizenship, and more.

Technology and the internet is here to stay so let's learn how to effectively monitor it and how to teach our youth how to use it.

For adults with teens & pre-teens in their lives.

Tuesday, May 4, 7:00-8:30 p.m. via Zoom

To receive the Zoom link, please email Jessica at SJNAAction@gmail.com

Hosted by ACTION in conjunction with Faith Formation